CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

In Canada the transportation and communication needs of the nation are served by Canadian National Railways.

Canadian National operates over 23,000 miles of line, reaching every provincial capital, important city and seaport in Canada and serving many districts reached by no other line. It provides fast and frequent train service from important centres in the United States to everywhere in Canada.

Canadian National Steamships operate between Vancouver and Prince Rupert (and Alaska in Summer) and between Canadian ports on the Atlantic and the British West Indies. Freight service to all parts of the world.

Canadian National Express handles Merchandise, Money and Valuables over the entire System and with its connections reaches all points in Canada and the United States. It maintains offices in Great Britain and on the Continent and through its Foreign Department and Steamship connections its service is world-wide.

Canadian National Telegraph service embraces every part of Canada and, connecting with the Western Union Telegraph Company, reaches 75,000 points in Canada, the United States and Mexico.

Canadian National operates year 'round hotels in many of Canada's leading cities as well as summer hotels and lodges at notable Canadian lake and mountain resorts.

Canadian National broadcasts from a chain of twelve radio broadcasting stations extending across Canada, and principal Canadian National trains are equipped for radio reception in charge of a competent operator.
