THROUGH PLACID SEAS to Thrills-Color-Romance

This year Cruise to Alaska, Land of a Thousand Contrasts! Where the Midnight Sun turns night into day and the mysterious Northern Lights dance overhead—Where enormous wildflowers nestle at the foot of age-old glaciers—Where wolf-grey mountains rise sheer from shadowy fiords—a cold forbidding land harboring a friendly welcoming people—a land of strange customs—wild totems.

Gold was its lure in '98 as it is today—golden sunsets, gold-tipped peaks at dawn, golden memories of new friendships, the joyous life afloat and strange ports of call.

Follow in the wake of the fortune-hunters—view the same scenes, re-live their romance surrounded by the comforts and conveniences of the famed "Prince" boats. What in those "gold rush" days was stern hard necessity is for you today a thrilling colorful experience, a joyous round of shipboard fun, deck games, music, dancing—all the delights of an ocean voyage minus only its discomfort. Protection from the broad Pacific is afforded by a chain of islands, in reality the protruding peaks of sunken mountains, so that, from deck or lounge or from your own cabin (for all cabins are "outside" on the "Prince" boats), you view the changing panorama all unaware of the ocean's moods.

The Canadian National is your attentive host on the steamers "Prince Robert," "Prince Rupert" and "Prince George." On their 2,000 mile journey between Vancouver and Skagway. A happy vacation spirit prevails. The smart service confirms the traditions of British seamanship and with the genial friendly atmosphere insures a thoroughly delightful cruise. Healthy appetites induced by deck games in the bracing northern air are appeased by the delicious meals and excellent dining service for which the "Prince" boats are famed.

Canadian National's convenient continental services and connections at Vancouver and Prince Rupert enable you to combine the Canadian Rockies and Alaska in one unmatched vacation. From the East, plan to stop for rest or play at Jasper, America's largest national park. Golf, riding, motoring, fishing and other outdoor sports will fill your time in this mountain playground. From the West, plan to disembark at Prince Rupert and enjoy the superb scenic trip to Jasper, thence returning south to Vancouver, thus completing the Triangle Tour of British Columbia.

Your nearest Canadian National agent will gladly help you plan your itinerary so as to make the most of your precious vacation days.
