MY TOAST

*To the North night
Where the winds of the Arctic
Whisper in winter their message of death.*

*To the North,
Where the sunshine in summer
Scarce an hour or two pauses in rest.*

*To the North,
Where the Frost King for centuries
Barred the door with a great glacial lock
And left as a token for ages
The gravels sheer frost to bedrock.*

*So long as the sun shines in summer,
Or the Northern Light dance in their glee,
You are dearer than the gold of the Klondike,
Dear Friend of the North. Here's to thee.*
