Vancouver, British Columbia

in Canada's Evergreen Playground

THE Hotel Vancouver is an imposing modern hostelry of fireproof construction throughout. Commandingly situated on Granville Street, at Georgia, the Hotel Vancouver overlooks the Strait of Georgia, and is one-third of a mile distant from the Canadian Pacific station and docks. The high standard of its appointments and service is unsurpassed among hotels on the North Pacific Coast.

523 comfortable rooms, majority with bath . . . brilliant ball room . . . public and private dining rooms . . . Spanish Grill Room . . . seven public rooms available for convention purposes . . . and other modern facilities, including railway and steamship ticket office, render the Hotel Vancouver pre-eminent as a centre of the business and social life of the district, and admirably suited to cater to the needs of tourists and convention delegates. A distinctive feature is the Roof Garden . . . a delightful, trellised retreat from which a magnificent view can be had of Vancouver.

The Hotel Vancouver appropriately bears the name of Captain George Vancouver, that intrepid explorer commissioned by the British Government in 1792 to take formal possession of the territory. Captain Vancouver, too, was impressed by the beauties of this glorious region, and wrote in his journal: "To describe the beauties of the region will, on some future occasion, be a very grateful task to the pen of a skilful panegyrist. The serenity of the climate, the innumerable pleasing landscapes and the abundant fertility that unassisted Nature puts forth, require only to be nourished by the industry of man, with villages, mansions, cottages and other buildings, to render it the most lovely country that can be imagined." The Hotel Vancouver is truly a "mansion" as envisioned by Captain Vancouver, and it and other products of "the industry of man" have rendered Canada's Evergreen Playground the "most lovely country that can be imagined," in fulfilment of the brave Captain's prophecy.

PACIFIC

The Hotel Vancouver is a Canadian Pacific Hotel—one of the chain of fifteen hotels from the Atlantic to the Pacific owned and operated by the "World's Greatest Travel System" . . . For further information, reservations, etc., apply to the manager, or your nearest Canadian Pacific representative. The Sleeping Car Conductor will be pleased to wire ahead, without charge, to any of the Company's hotels for your hotel reservations. »
