POWER

CANADIAN PACIFIC locomotives are chalking up impressive mileage records in their efforts to keep vital wartime traffic on the move with maximum speed and efficiency. Though all the Company's engines are "doing their bit" in fine style, special distinction has been conferred on Locomotive 2859, one of the Royal Hudson class, which recently set a record of 19,053 miles in a single month.

In two other months, Locomotive 2859 was close to its peak mark in mileage with totals of 18,265 miles and 18,452 miles, while its six-months' average was 17,197 miles. These exceptionally long hauls are in keeping with the Company's wartime policy of getting maximum service from all its equipment.

Other Royal Hudsons clicking off extra miles at present include Locomotive 2858, which operated 17,547 miles in one month, and Locomotives 2838, 2839, 2840 and 2841—all on the Toronto to Fort William run—which averaged 16,000 miles monthly over a half-year period.

The crown proudly carried on this locomotive's running board is a mark of honor for all of the "Royal Hudson" class, for it was Locomotive 2850, sister engine of the ones now setting high mileage marks, which took Their Majesties across Canada in the Royal Visit of 1939, a trip of 3,200 miles. This established a new world record in long distance hauls performed by a single locomotive.

Authority for the use of the crown marking was given after that memorable journey.
