The SHADOWING OLYMPICS

Snow-capped the year round, the mighty Olympic mountains temper Vancouver Island's gentle climate. In full sight from the fast Princess liners that ply between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, they form a distant, shadowy background of cool beauty. Here, a Princess, soon to land her passengers at Victoria, passes Oak Bay. In the foreground picturesque broom adds to the colour harmony. Princess liners of the Triangle Service connect with sailings to Alaska and the transcontinental trains of the Canadian Pacific Railway.
