The Valley of the Ten Peaks

Surrounding aptly named Moraine Lake and, on still days, reflected in its placid green surface, ten snow-capped mountain tops — all over 10,000 feet high — have given a name to one of the loveliest spots in the Canadian Rockies.

Mount Fay, Mount Little, Number three, Number four, Number five, Mount Allen, Mount Tuzo, Deltaform Mountain, Neptuak Mountain and Wenkchemna Mountain are the ten peaks.

Reached from Lake Louise station on the Canadian Pacific transcontinental line near the Alberta - British Columbia boundary, this larch-lined valley is a short bus or motor drive from Chateau Lake Louise and the site of Moraine Lake Lodge.

In the Canadian Rockies, accessible from the Canadian Pacific main line, are many beauty spots, of which our picture is just a sample. From your train window, particularly between Morley, Alta., and Sicamous, B.C., a variety of mountain scenery forms a day-long panorama.
