WINTER IN OLD QUÉBEC

Crisp, sparkling snow, invigorating winter sunshine, music of sleigh bells, bright costumes of snow-shoe clubs, narrow streets, centuries-old buildings, habitant handicrafts, French-Canadian folk songs, "soupe au pois",—colourful parish churches, Old World architecture, ghosts of a romantic era—these are Québec, only walled city in North America, in winter.

Towering above and architecturally akin to the old city, the Chateau Frontenac, metropolitan Canadian Pacific hotel, transposes Québec's ancient culture into a modern key. Headquarters for business as well as holiday visitors, the Chateau Frontenac—a year-round hostelry—is home to skiers who speed over the hills and cross-country runs of Lac Beauport and Valcartier, business-men, honeymooners, diplomats, tourists who absorb Québec's atmosphere from picturesque sleighs.
