THE CANADIAN

From tidewater to tidewater through 2,881 miles of typically Canadian scenery in less than three days is the proud boast of "The Canadian", the sleek, streamlined, all-stainless-steel Canadian Pacific train equipped with Scenic Domes for all-around vision.

Between Montreal, port of transatlantic liners and Vancouver, west coast harbour for the broad Pacific, "The Canadian" speeds daily in each direction with the latest word in modern railway equipment. Giant diesel locomotives, apparently effortless in their great strength, are the motive power across the continent.

A feature of the famous train is joint service between Montreal and Vancouver, and Toronto and Vancouver, the two routes converging at Sudbury near the historic meeting place of early trails.

Scenic Domes, comfortable lounges, glass-enclosed for all-around vision, are centred above the rear observation car and the mid-train Skyline Coffee shop coach.

Air-conditioned throughout, "The Canadian" has private accommodation in drawing-rooms, compartments, bedrooms, roomettes and duplex roomettes as well as lower and upper berths and comfortable reclining seats in day coaches—all reserved.
