
There's Something About The "Panama!"

Thousands of travelers have said it. There is something about the "Panama Limited"—something beyond the sparkling beauty of its dining and lounge cars and the quiet luxury of its sleeping cars—something beyond the fast, overnight schedule between Chicago and New Orleans that takes no hours away from the busy executive's day.

It's something that goes back beyond the memory of today's travelers—back nearly a hundred years to the gilded and mirrored cabins of the Steamboat "Robert E. Lee," the pride of the Mississippi and the epitome of that day's luxury travel. For the "Robert E. Lee" and other famous steamers carried Illinois Central passengers between Cairo, Illinois, and New Orleans.

The gracious traditions of those almost forgotten days are the "something" passengers sense aboard today's "Panama Limited." For those traditions have grown for nearly half a century with the "Panama," itself. The tradition of fine food, of Southern delicacies served with deference; the spirit of hospitality and friendliness that dominates the lounges; the thoughtful attention of the Illinois Central people aboard the train—these are qualities that lift the "Panama" above other trains.

There's another thing, too, which passengers sense about the "Panama" without knowing the reason. The "Panama" is fast, yet experienced travelers note that it is smoother than most trains of its kind. The reason goes beyond heavy rail, ample ballast and well-maintained roadbed. It is, in fact, another example of thoughtfulness for the comfort of Illinois Central patrons. The secret is a schedule that takes full advantage of the long reaches of straight track. This permits slower speeds and easier riding on the curves, helps passengers enjoy an easy night's sleep.

There's another fine train between Chicago and New Orleans for those who want to enjoy the pleasures of Illinois Central travel on a thriftier basis—the fast Dayliner "City of New Orleans," an all-coach train with fine dining car service, beautiful lounge cars and luxurious reclining-seat coaches. The "City of New Orleans" affords travelers an all-day panorama of Mid-America from the prairies of Illinois to the bayous of the deep south.

Aboard either train, you'll enjoy the finest of Illinois Central service.

Courtesy Springs from the Heart

Nothing pleases us more than to hear praise from a patron for some special courtesy extended to him by an Illinois Central employe. It is especially gratifying that such praise comes frequently in a world where people often seem quicker to criticize than to commend.

Rules for the courteous treatment of patrons are common to most companies having frequent contacts with the public. The Illinois Central for many years has schooled its employes to serve the public courteously.

These rules of courtesy extend equally to all of our patrons . . . to the woman buying a one-way ticket for a short journey and to the business man who routes thousands of carloads of freight a year over our railroad.

But the rules of courtesy are only guideposts for our dealings with patrons. For courtesy springs from the heart. It is an expression of respect, of consideration for the needs of others. Such respect and consideration are a basic part of the business of railroading. They are bred by the teamwork, the co-operation and discipline that goes with the orderly and safe running of trains and the handling of freight and passengers.

Respect among railroaders begins with respect for the value of their own jobs and for the jobs of their fellow-workers. Engineers, conductors and other trainmen respect the importance of the dispatchers who govern the movements of trains. They likewise respect the mechanical employes who keep locomotives and cars in good running order, the track crews who maintain rails and roadbed and the electrical workers who keep vital communications functioning through storms and floods. All of these people who keep the trains running respect the work of the freight and passenger traffic men, who are responsible for bringing in the business which is every railroad man's bread and butter. And the traffic men know that their success in turn depends on the service rendered shippers and passengers by the operating, engineering and other departments.

This mutual, all-around respect of Illinois Central employes for one another and for shippers and passengers is the foundation of Illinois Central courtesy.

You will find this courtesy reflected in the voices of telephone operators, in the thoughtfulness of dining car waiters, in the quick willingness of Illinois Central traffic men to work with you on all of your freight problems.

In the course of a year, the Illinois Central does business with many hundreds of thousands of people. Providing transportation service for them keeps us busy. Nearly 40,000 members of the Illinois Central organization last year moved 78 million tons of revenue freight and carried passengers on 4 million trips, not including nearly 35 million trips on our Chicago suburban lines.

The first duty of all of our people is to keep this freight and these passengers moving to their destinations safely and on time. Often it's a strenuous job. Occasionally a busy man or woman may, in a trying moment, fail to be as polite as he or she should. They're wrong when that happens, and we'd like to know about it. But we also hope you will understand that our people do understand and appreciate the value of our patrons' good will and their right to expect and receive the best of service delivered with honest courtesy and respect.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

SUGGESTIONS FOR READING YOUR TIME TABLE

First find the station in which you are interested, in the index below and turn to the table or tables indicated. Note carefully any symbols in the schedule columns and their explanation in the Reference Notes on page 12. If ★ appears before the station name, train number indicates train which stops on signal at that station. If no regular or flag stop is shown, consult agent. When ♦ appears before station name it indicates Freight Service only. Time from 12:01 midnight to 12:00 noon (A. M. time) is shown in light face figures; time from 12:01 noon to 12:00 midnight (P. M. time) is shown in heavy face figures. All time shown is Central Time unless otherwise indicated.

ALL TRAINS OPERATE DAILY EXCEPT WHERE OTHERWISE INDICATED.

In the time tables read the figures DOWN on the LEFT of the station names and UP on the RIGHT. The time shown opposite a station name is the time trains are scheduled to be at the station. Where no time is shown, trains do not stop.

The Condensed Schedules, Tables A to L inclusive, are of assistance in planning extended trips on the Illinois Central and connecting lines. The equipment of through trains is shown in connection with the condensed tables.

The four pages of geographically correct maps in the center of this folder will enable you to locate your station and route.

If further information is desired, any Illinois Central agent or representative will be glad to assist you.
