SEABOARD
AIR LINE RAILWAY

THE COMING OF WINTER should arouse no fears in those who live in the North; for to the south, easily reached, is a land of sunshine, flowers and genial climate.

Illustrations and descriptions but suggest the comfort and enjoyment to be found at the winter resorts south. Only personal experience will afford a true appreciation of the delicious softness of the balmy atmosphere of the long-leaf pine sections of the Carolinas, or of the beauty of the splendid hotels of Florida, with their profusion of majestic cocoanut palms and tropical plants.

How best to reach this land of enchantment is easily answered. The Seaboard Air Line Railway is the shortest and quickest route, and its handsomely equipped trains afford the tourist not only the best through service, but, if desired, the means of making the trip in easy stages. Stop-overs may be made at such charming resorts as Southern Pines and Pinehurst, N. C., Camden and Columbia, S. C., which are directly on the main line of travel to Florida.

Two daily high-class trains are run the year round between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Florida. In addition, commencing early in January, the magnificent all-Pullman electric-lighted Seaboard Florida Limited, runs daily, making quickest time New York to St. Augustine, Fla., continuing in service until the middle of April.

Winter tourist tickets are sold by the Seaboard Air Line Railway and its connections, October 15th to April 30th, and permit stop-overs of thirty days in either direction, with final limit of tickets, May 31st. In Florida stop-over at pleasure within final limit is allowed.

Holders of all-rail winter tourist tickets via Richmond can, on return journey, purchase at Norlina, as well as important points south thereof, at rate of $3.50, side-trip tickets via Norfolk and Old Point Comfort, thence all rail to Richmond or steamer to Washington or Baltimore, from any one of which points the original ticket can be used to destination.

For Hotel Directory see pages 40 to 46.

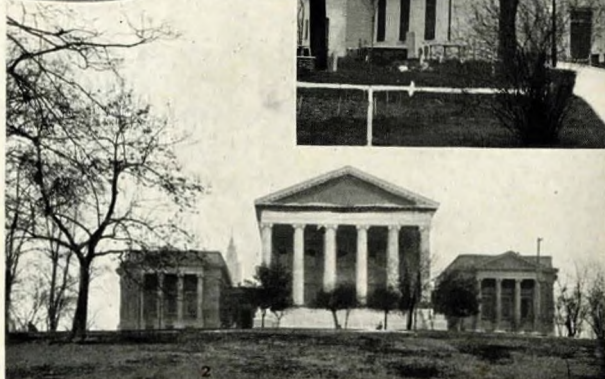

Representatives of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, shown at back of book, will gladly give full information as to rates, schedules, etc.

Virginia and Hampton Roads

Richmond A visit to Richmond is almost a duty that every one owes to himself. There are few places richer in historic association than the former capital of the Southern Confederacy and the present capital of Virginia. The historical interest of the city does not attach to the Civil War alone, but goes back before the Revolution. The city is crowded with memorials of the past, from the funny little stone house where Washington had his headquarters, and the church where Henry cried for liberty, to the beautiful Lee Monument. Besides, Richmond is in many ways the finest city of the South. There are three excellent hotels, the beautiful Jefferson, the Richmond, and the popular Murphy's hotel, also smaller hotels and boarding houses.

Norfolk, Portsmouth, Old Point Comfort are grouped about Pine Beach and Newport News Hampton Roads, the finest harbor on the Atlantic Coast. The tourist may find comfort and every convenience at the fine hotels in Norfolk, the Chamberlin at Old Point Comfort, or the Pine Beach. The Jamestown exposition will be held here in 1907 celebrating the discovery of this section by English settlers in 1607.

The historical associations of the vicinity — Fortress Monroe, the Navy Yard — and the sailing, fishing and golf make this section of Virginia attractive to all.

Virginia Beach is seventeen miles from Norfolk on the Atlantic Coast, and is reached by an electric line. It is an ideal summer or winter resort and the surf is unsurpassed. The Princess Anne Hotel has now passed into the hands of a strong company of experienced hotel men, and a large sum is to be spent in remodeling and refitting this popular hostelry.

PINEHURST

The Carolinas and Georgia

Among the Pines of the Middle South

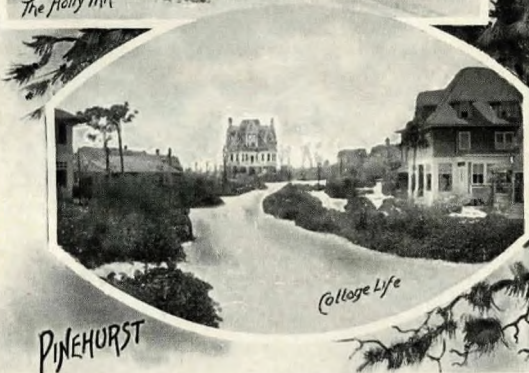

UNTIL quite recently those who, either for pleasure or for reasons of health, desired to escape the rigors of northern winters knew Florida only as a mecca, but a middle ground was discovered a few years ago in the Carolinas and Georgia, where the climate was agreeable and not too warm to be debilitating. In this section vast capital is now invested in resorts for all classes of tourists. The hotels at Pinehurst, Southern Pines, Camden, Columbia, S. C., in the City of Savannah, and many of the other tourist points being of the very highest standard, while nearby are modern but less pretentious hotels, with prices of board so moderate that people of limited means can afford to visit them. Beginning in the very heart of this region, something should be said of the thermal belt in the long-leaf pine section of the Carolinas, in which section Southern Pines, Pinehurst and Camden are located. It is elevated from 600 to 900 feet above the sea level, and it is a well-defined belt about seven miles wide, and extending into both States. The trees grow to a great height in the open forest and their balsamic odor one instinctively feels to be a tonic. The soil is sand and gravel to the depth of from sixty to one hundred feet, insuring perfect drainage and filtration. After a heavy rain the surface is almost dry and there can be no possibility of malarial or miasmatic conditions. The climate is equable and never uncomfortably cold; yet the invigorating, aromatic air of the pine trees has the bracing effect of the clear, dry cold of the North, with none of its discomforts. At Pinehurst and Southern Pines the average winter temperature is forty-four degrees but the temperature is so free from moisture that it seems warmer.

Southern Pines, N. C. is directly on the main line of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, about six miles from Pinehurst, and the climate, soil and natural conditions are similar.

Out-of-doors exercise may be enjoyed all winter. Excellent golf links are kept in perfect condition and are much patronized. The hunting in the neighborhood is first-class.

There is a fine natural spring on the Piney Woods Inn grounds, whose waters are efficacious in the cure of rheumatism and such diseases. There are excellent schools and good stores in the village. The principal hotels are :

the year. Open fireplaces in each room. Large and pleasant parlor, office, billiard room and smoking room, etc.

Grove Cottage, a private home and quiet resort for invalids and health seekers, away from the larger hotels, insuring rest and quiet, reasonable rates and abundance of comfort.

Hotel Sunny-Side, open the year round. Nice large verandas and sun parlors.

Vermont House, centrally located, only five minutes' walk from railroad station.

The Southern Pines Sanitarium is a thoroughly equipped institution for the cure of chronic and nervous diseases. The sanitarium can take care of twenty-five patients.

Pinehurst, N. C., with an elevation of nearly 900 feet above the sea, is a charming little village, with four splendid hotels that are equipped and maintained in the most perfect manner. The Carolina, the leading hotel, is the largest hotel in the State of North Carolina, and ranks among the leading resort hotels of the world. Other hotels are Holly Inn, a charming home-like place, next to the Carolina in size and importance, and the Harvard and the Berkshire. In addition to the hotels, there are fifty modern cottages, fully furnished, that may be rented by the month or season. They are all attractively situated within well-kept grounds, and quite near to the hotels. A fine Casino and a new music hall and auditorium provide splendid facilities for indoor amusements of every character. Golf is a leading feature, and more care and attention is given at Pinehurst to this popular game than at any other southern resort. There are two fine courses, one of eighteen holes, over a diversified country, which provides many excellent natural hazards, and another of nine holes that is favored by beginners at the game, but which, while an easier course, is just as well laid out and kept up as is the longer and more difficult one. The large and handsome club-house is within ten minutes' walk of the hotels and cottages, or less time by bus. The links are under the care of two capable professionals. Splendid roads have been laid out through the village and to nearby places. Riding and driving through the pine woods are the most enjoyable of recreations. A large livery is maintained and the best of driving and saddle horses can always be had.

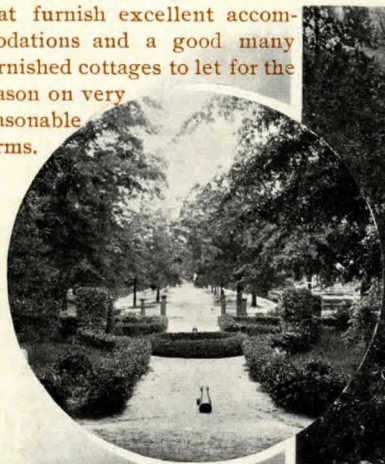

Quail shooting has always been a special feature of the winter season at Pinehurst, but during the last few years, the management has determined to make this sport not only excellent, but in fact, the best in America. To this end it has gradually acquired, for shooting purposes, under lease, additional acreage around the villages (itself comprising six thousand acres) until now it controls a total of more than thirty-five thousand acres. For the benefit of northern sportsmen, a large kennel of carefully trained dogs is maintained.

Pinehurst is carefully sewered. Every building in the village is provided with running water from an artesian well that is inexhaustible. The village is electrically lighted.

Pinehurst is a striking example of the advantages of single ownership, and intelligent shaping of means to ends. It is practically self-sustaining, producing all requisite products, such as vegetables, chickens, eggs, etc. Its hennery and dairy are studies in domestic economy.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is the direct and short line to Pinehurst.

Pine Bluff is a new winter health resort, six miles south of Southern Pines, and five miles from Pinehurst and is on the main line of the Seaboard Air Line Railway. It has pure streams of water unsurpassed by any in the United States. There are a number of houses that furnish excellent accommodations and a good many furnished cottages to let for the season on very reasonable terms.

Colonial Camden

Raleigh, the capital of North Carolina, is an attractive city. The climate is the chief attraction to visitors. It has a fine supply of water, well-paved streets, and the country round about it is attractive. Game is plentiful, close at hand and there are good facilities for shooting.

The Yarborough House, is one of the most popular houses in the State, and entertains a number of the best Southern families.

Camden, S. C., as a winter resort, has all the natural advantages of Pinehurst and Southern Pines, being in the thermal belt of the long-leaf pine section having its characteristic sand and gravel soil that gives such perfect drainage and filtration. Here, too, the air is dry and pure and laden with tonic odors of the pines. Malaria, is of course, impossible and the residents are immune from pulmonary and throat diseases. Being farther south, the climate is somewhat warmer than at other resorts. It is also a charming place socially. The historical interest of the place is, of course, because it was the field of operations during some of the severest campaigns of the Revolution. Here are Hobkirk Hill, where Greene and Rawdon fought, and Gun Swamps where Gates encountered Cornwallis. In the old Presbyterian churchyard lie the remains of Baron DeKalb. The corner-stone of his monument was laid by Lafayette.

A morning's drive gives one views of the Wateree River, with the fertile meadows and large Indian mounds by which it flows. The drives are especially fine about here, running through pine forest, over the smooth, soft, sweet-smelling stretches of pine needles, in places bordered with hedges of Cherokee roses, the most beautiful hedge in the world, now by handsome gardens filled with jasmin and magnolia; of fine old colonial mansions. In the town itself the streets are broad and shaded by oaks, elms and pine trees. Here, too, are the beautiful gardens half hiding the old southern houses behind their masses of flowers, vines and oddly-trimmed formal, old-fashioned evergreens. There are good stores, banks, schools, churches and an opera house. The population, including the suburbs, is about 5000 and fast increasing.

There is no lack of amusements here. The shooting is excellent and the place is celebrated for its fox hunts. The Camden hounds are out regularly during the season, and as visitors can procure good mounts at the livery stables, this exhilarating sport may be enjoyed in a way for which there are few opportunities in this country. Bird dogs, guns and guides may also be had. The livery is well supplied with horses and vehicles of all kinds.

The Country Club is an institution that contributes much to the pleasure of visitors. It has polo grounds, golf course and shooting ranges.

On the old Revolutionary battlefield of Hobkirk, stands the charming Hobkirk Inn, one of the most delightful home-like hotels in the country. It is noted for its excellent table, thorough service, bright sunny rooms, beautiful surroundings, and completeness of appointments.

Court Inn, Camden, is a winter resort hotel upon the site of famous "Upton Court." It is upon a high sandy ridge containing thirty-five acres of pine and southern trees and shrubs that have been highly cultivated for many years. The Inn has a frontage of nearly 300 feet, and accommodates 200 guests. The house contains every modern comfort and convenience, including a glass enclosed piazza. All the rooms are bright and sunny.

The water is remarkably pure and soft. In front of the Inn is a garden with flowers, evergreen shrubs and arches; an evergreen walk 500 feet long, makes an inviting promenade.

colonial structure in harmony with its surroundings. It contains 125 rooms, each with a private bath, open fireplace and telephone. Its other appointments are in keeping with these.

Columbia, the capital of South Carolina, is the exact geographical center of the State. At this point the Broad and Saluda Rivers form the Congaree, which at low water is 233 feet above sea level, while the city itself is more than one hundred feet higher. The drainage is perfect, the soil is sandy and permeable, and the climate conditions generally are those which exist in the Sand Hill region, famous for its salubrity. The growth of long-leaf pines which crown these hills, of course, affects materially all conditions of health. Its mean winter temperature is above forty-seven degrees and that of spring is sixty-three and four-tenths degrees.

The public buildings and residences are handsome. The streets are shaded with splendid trees.

Columbia's cotton mills are among the largest in the South.

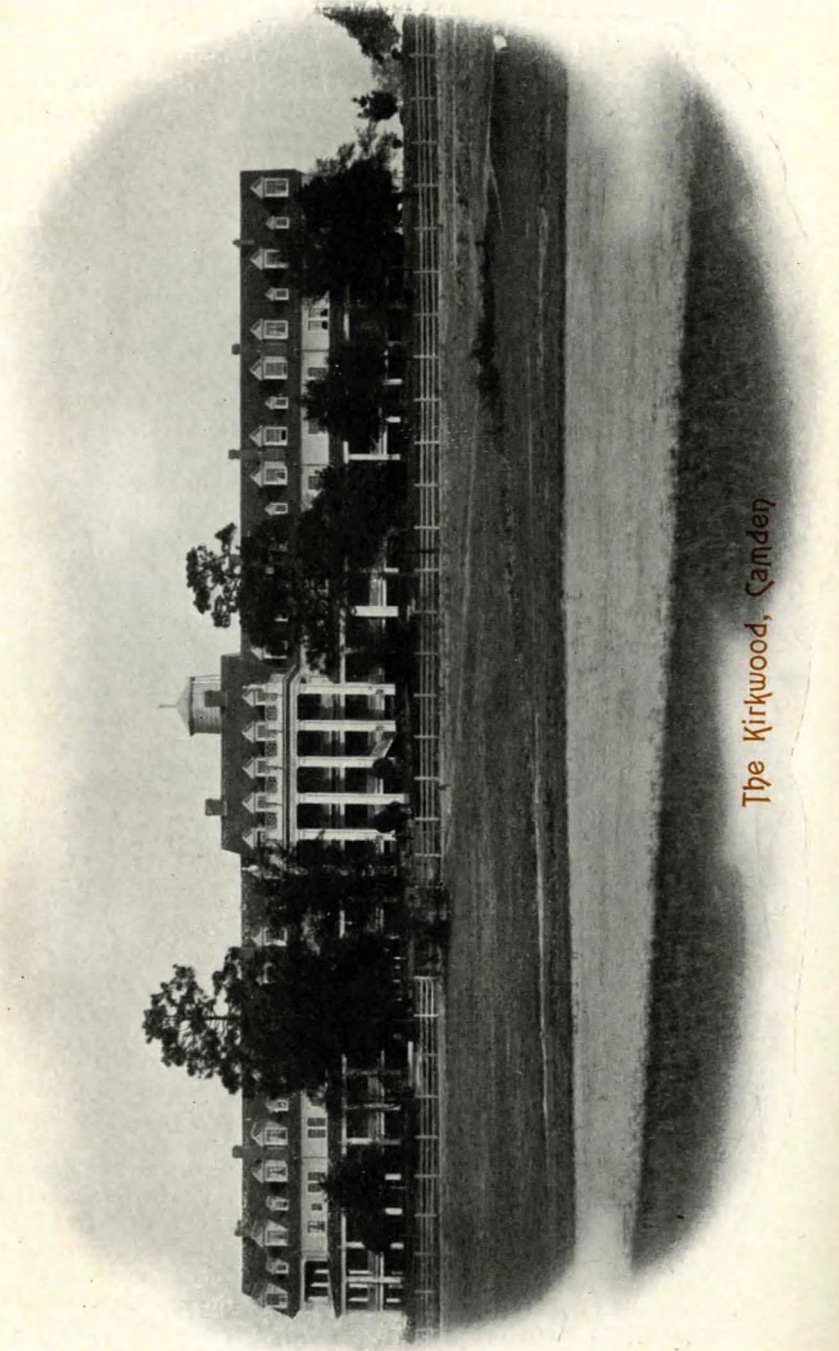

Columbia possesses good hotels, the Columbia, Wrights and the Colonia. The last named, the newest and most up-to-date winter resort hotel in America, now being built at Columbia, will be open for the reception of guests January 1, 1907.

Savannah, Ga., the largest and most important sea-coast city of the South Atlantic coast is situated on the Savannah River, eighteen miles from the Atlantic Ocean and one hundred thirty-eight miles from Jacksonville. The city is on the main line of the SEABOARD, and the tourist will find a stop here not only beneficial but an interesting experience, as the city is one of the best and most characteristic representatives of the South. Forsythe Park is greatly admired. The motorist will enjoy the many miles of well-kept drives. Bonaventure Cemetery is the most beautiful city of the dead in the South. Tybee Island is a famous seaside resort, popular in both winter and summer. Another nearby resort is Thunderbolt, famous for fish and oysters. Savannah is the second largest cotton port in the United States, and the largest naval-store port in the world. The city has a population of about sixty-five thousand people, and is amply supplied with good hotels. The most famous of these is the De Soto Hotel, where the traveler will find the best of everything. The hunting around Savannah is one of its greatest attractions to the visitor. The level meadows afford fine quail shooting and the creeks and marshes are filled with ducks at the proper season. The winter climate is ideal, the thermometer usually ranging about sixty degrees.

Brunswick, Ga. is about half way between Jacksonville and Savannah directly on the coast. It is reached by a direct connection of the through trains of the Seaboard Air Line Railway. The city is built upon a peninsula, almost surrounded by deep salt water streams, making the location unusually healthy as well as offering excellent shipping facilities. There is no better winter climate and the opportunities for enjoyment are many. But a few miles away, in sight of the city, is Jekyll Island, historic in the annals of Georgia's settlement, and now the home of the Jekyll Island Club, an exclusive social organization of American financiers.

Saint Simons Island is another seaside resort where the Brunswickers congregate. About Brunswick are many miles of fine shell drives. There are good fishing and hunting. The social life of the place is agreeable.

The Hotel Oglethorpe is a magnificent hostelry that has been remodeled and is thoroughly prepared to care for the crowds of tourists who visit the city every winter. It is open all the year. This hotel compares favorably with the splendid establishments in Florida.

Florida

Down the East Coast

Jacksonville has the bustle, the hurry and the life of a northern city, and one has to take a good look at the physical surroundings—the houses, the trees, the flowers—to be assured he is really in the South. The city is twenty-two miles from the ocean, but the St. John's River here is a broad, deep and ample harbor for ocean-going vessels. There are many excellent hotels. The ostrich farm will interest every one.

St. Augustine There is no more interesting place in Florida than St. Augustine. It is the oldest city on the Continent, and the picturesque beauty of the old city mingles with its modern gorgeousness in a bewildering but enchanting manner.

Its great tourist hotels—the Ponce de Leon and the Alcazar—are the finest of their kind. They are built of coquina and practically indestructible. Their architecture is of Spanish type. The surrounding grounds are beautiful with settings of flowers, tropical trees and plants. There are many other first-class hotels—the Magnolia, Florida, Granada, etc.

Interesting relics are the old city gateway, and Fort Marion, built in 1756. In the Plaza de la Constitution stands the old slave market, also the cathedral, the oldest church in America.

For amusements there are surf bathing, boating, yachting, driving, shooting, excellent fishing, dancing and golf.

Palatka is at the head of deepwater navigation on the St. John's River, and here is fine fishing, and nearby excellent shooting. A favorite amusement is boating. Excursions up the Ocklawaha River to Silver Springs give visitors an opportunity to see some characteristically wild Floridian country. Three hotels and a number of boarding houses afford excellent accommodations to tourists and travelers.

Ormond Sixty-eight miles from St. Augustine is Ormond. Forests and orange groves, the ocean, the picturesque Tomoka River, up which daily excursions are made in steam and naphtha launches, make Ormond one of the most attractive places on the coast.

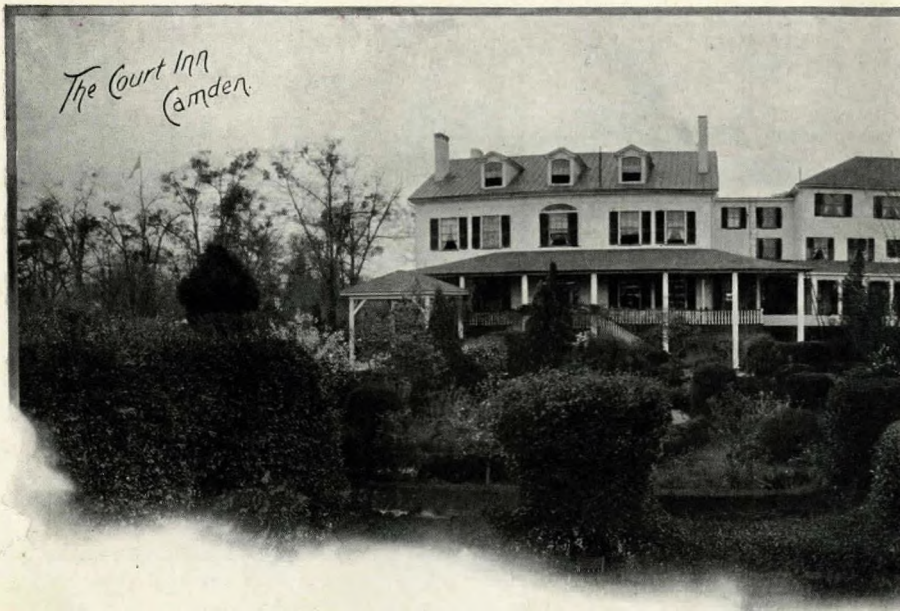

The Automobile Association gives automobile racing events annually at Ormond Beach, where records for all weights and classes of machines have been established. The races are held in January and the most noted American and foreign drivers contest.

The fishing in the Halifax is good. The Ormond golf course, nine holes, is kept in first-class condition. The Hotel Ormond is one of the splendid caravansaries which have made the east coast famous.

Daytona, the "Forest City," is 110 miles from Jacksonville, on the west bank of the Halifax. Besides delightful hotels and artistic homes, thirty miles of shell road, many miles of hard, smooth beach, and a mild equable climate are the features of the place.

Seabreeze Two bridges span the Halifax River and afford communication with the shining ocean strand which rejoices in the highly appropriate appellation of "Silver Beach." On the peninsula or ocean side are also the settlements known as City Beautiful and Seabreeze.

Port Orange is another pretty village on the Halifax. Fish and game are particularly abundant. The Port Orange is open during the winter and spring.

New Smyrna is the oldest settlement on the Atlantic Coast south of St. Augustine. There are fine fishing, hunting, bathing and boating, and extensive orange groves.

From New Smyrna a branch road leads to Lake Helen, Blue Spring, Orange City, and thence by carriage to De Land. Orange City is an inland village, preferred by many for their winter home because of its quietude, its mild climate and its remarkable healthfulness.

Titusville is 118 miles south of St. Augustine. Docks extending half a mile into the river afford opportunity for splendid fishing. In the Indian River prairie, just north of Titusville, are found some of the best snipe-shooting grounds in the world. Ducks are abundant in the nearby bayous and lagoons. On the ocean beach opposite are the houses of the Canaveral Club, the finest on any Southern beach.

Rockledge is on the west bank of the Indian River. Nearby is Merritt's Island, famous for alligator shooting, good duck shooting and fishing.

Eau Gallie, a French-Indian name, meaning Rock Water, shows the coquina formation at its best. There are excellent duck shooting and fishing here.

Melbourne located on a bluff above Indian River, affords fine hunting and fishing and good surf bathing.

Fort Pierce, nearly opposite Indian River Inlet, is famous for its pine-apples and fishing. Quail, snipe, plover, ducks, etc., are also plentiful, while in the woods are bears, deer, turkeys, and wildcats; nor has the alligator been exterminated in this neighborhood.

Lake Worth West Palm Beach and its more fashionable neighbor, Palm Beach, are on that most beautiful sheet of water, Lake Worth. The shores of the lake are wooded with tall palms and other tropical trees. Here nature has supplied ideal surroundings, and wealth and art have utilized the conditions in the erection of homes of surpassing beauty and elegance.

Palm Beach is said by globe-trotters to be one of the most beautiful seaside resorts in the world. The island on which the great hotels stand is separated from the mainland by dreamful Lake Worth. On the other side is the ocean. The Breakers is a large perfectly-appointed hotel, and its position with reference to the sea attracts many patrons.

Half a mile west, on the other side of the island, and reached by a broad asphalt walk lined with superb tropical vegetation, stands the Royal Poinciana, the largest hotel in the South and one of the largest in the world. It faces the lake and is surrounded by gardens, in which there is both a well-ordered profusion and a riot of tropical and sub-tropical vegetation. The interior decorations of the hotel are elaborate and magnificent.

The climate is such that one is always ready for active out-of-door sports, and boating, bathing, golf and tennis are eagerly engaged in. The links are especially fine.

Attractively situated amid orange and cocoanut groves, stands the new, large and well-appointed Hotel Palm Beach. This hotel is modern in its arrangements and equipment.

Miami is located on Biscayne Bay, at the mouth of the Miami River.

A fleet of handsomely appointed steamers ply between this point and Nassau, Key West and Havana. Upon a crowning point of land, overlooking the bay, is the Hotel Royal Palm. Boating is the chief form of entertainment except golf. The fishing is excellent.

Northern and Central Florida and Gulf Coast Resorts

Magnolia Springs, one of the best known smaller resorts, has a superb winter hotel bearing its name, with several large and very pleasant cottages. It is located on the St. John's River. The numerous creeks and hunting grounds in close proximity afford abundant fish and game.

De Land is 111 miles south of Jacksonville. The College Arms and the Putnam are modern hotels.

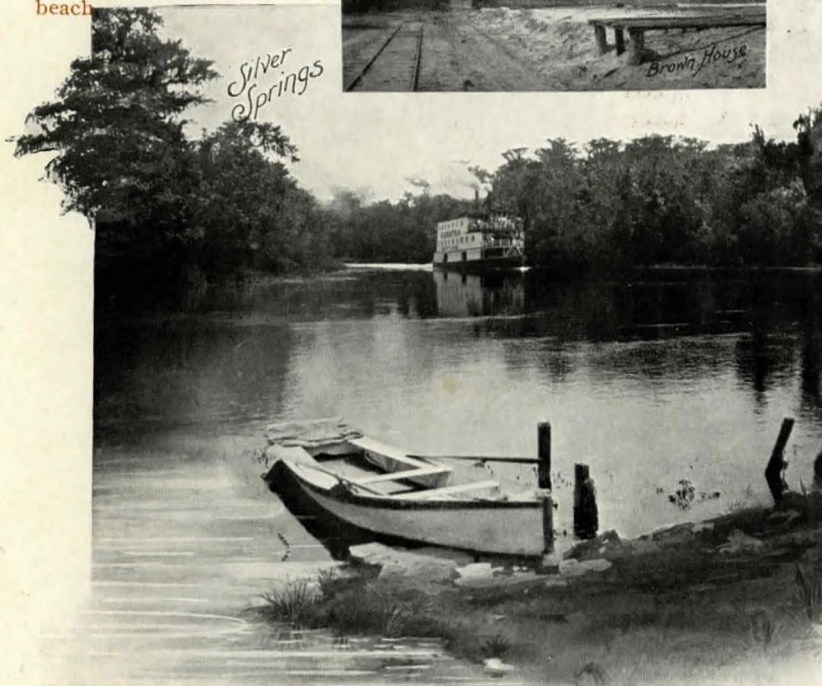

Sanford is an important railroad junction-point and the terminus of the regular St. John's River Line of Steamers. The black bass fishing is said to be the best in the state. Small game is plentiful.

Fernandina is thirty-six miles from Jacksonville, and located on the largest and deepest harbor on the eastern coast of Florida.

It possesses one of the finest beaches in the world—"Amelia Beach," is over twenty miles long and two hundred feet wide. A magnificent drive-way of compact shell road connects the city with the beach.

Bronn House

Silver Springs

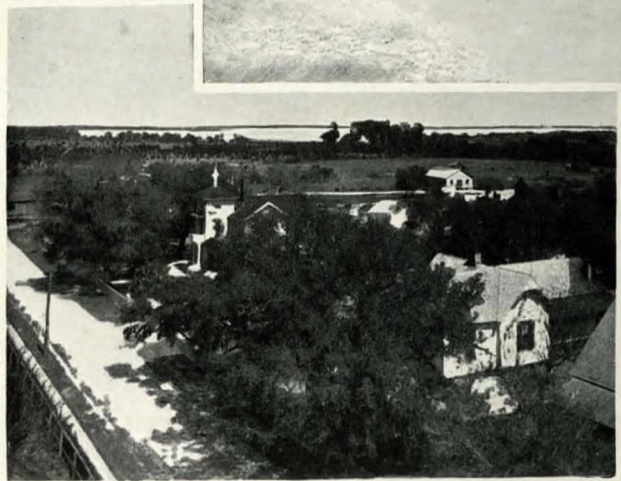

Lake City takes its name from its situation midst a group of pretty lakes, which make it almost a little Venice. Notwithstanding the surrounding water, the land is high and the place exceptionally healthy.

Tallahassee The State Capital, Tallahassee, called the "Floral City," is situated in the middle of western Florida, among the hills of Leon County, noted for beautiful scenery and fine hard-clay roads. The atmosphere is perfectly dry and the temperature even. Beautifully built on a high elevation, its broad streets and avenues shaded with evergreens and live-oaks, and bountiful and luxurious growth of flowers and shrubs, make Tallahassee, a veritable garden spot.

Pensacola in the western portion of northern Florida, is an important gulf port. The climate is delightful, the temperature being about the same as that of southern Italy, though much drier. The harbor offers many facilities for boating and sailing. Across the bay are Fort Barrancas, Fort Pickens, Fort McRea and the Navy Yard.

Cedar Keys is the objective point of many tourists. It is situated on an island, and other islands, or keys, (as they are called) surround it and add to the picturesqueness both of the scene and the life of the place. Cedar Key is celebrated for the hygienic quality of its atmosphere.

Gainesville On the Cedar Key Branch of the SEABOARD is Gainesville. There are many beautiful drives and walks about the place, and its fine temperature induces many to locate here during the entire winter.

Waldo is a charmingly located place, at the junction of the Seaboard's main line, and the Cedar Key Branch.

Hawthorne is a thriving village, situated in the center of a rich section, especially adapted to the culture of the peach and orange.

Silver Springs near Ocala, is one of the wonders of Florida. It is several hundred feet wide and the steamboat from the Ocklawaha River lands passengers there. The water is clear as crystal, and a coin dropped overboard can be seen until it reaches the bottom, in some places sixty feet in depth.

Ocala is a thriving and prosperous city and the center of one of the richest agricultural sections of the state. Quail are found in great abundance, while deer are not scarce, and hunters find an occasional bear.

Wildwood At the junction of the main line and the Lake Charm Branch of the road is Wildwood. Its location, at the head of the Gulf Hammock, insures two of the things for which people visit Florida, fruit and game, and both are found in abundance.

Leesburg is built on a narrow peninsula separating Lakes Harris and Griffin, whose shores are lined for long distances with orange groves. As a winter resort it has long held a desirable reputation.

Tavares is the center of a large district devoted to orange culture, and there are few places where orange growing can be studied more thoroughly than here. It is a fine winter sanitarium.

Apopka This is a very pretty little town of one thousand inhabitants, near Lake Apopka, the second largest lake in the state. It affords excellent sport for the fisherman.

Orlando is one of the most popular places in Florida. Of its many attractions may be mentioned its numerous lakes, twenty-five miles of clay roads, pineries, vineyards, orange groves, churches, and unsurpassed educational facilities. There are several good hotels and boarding houses.

Winter Park is situated among the beautiful clear-water lakes of Orange County and surrounded by orange groves. It is especially noted for its healthfulness, its balmy climate and dry atmosphere. Quail hunting is very fine. There are turkeys in moderate quantities, and good deer hunting in the vicinity. Lakes Virginia, Osceola, Mizel, Maitland and Fairview, afford excellent fishing for trout, perch and black bass.

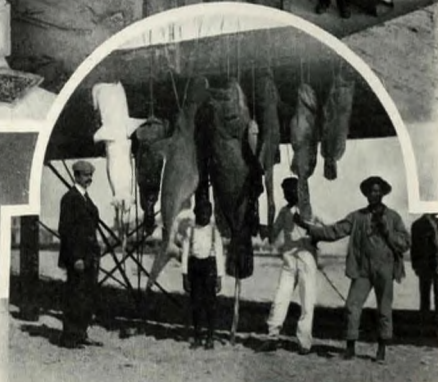

Oviedo is the railroad station for beautiful Lake Charm, one of the most attractive spots in Florida. It is almost 200 miles from Jacksonville, and it is reached only by the Seaboard Air Line Railway.

Mohawk is in the heart of the Apopka "mountains" as the chain of low-lying hills is called in this generally level country. It is reached by the Seaboard Air Line Railway via Tavares, thence by the Tavares and Gulf Railroad.

Mohawk is a "hunter's" paradise in which a great variety of game abounds. The "Jolly Palms" is devoted to the entertainment of sportsmen. It is attractively situated on a pretty little lake, in which there is good fishing.

Dade City, 165 miles south of Jacksonville, is in what is known as the hill country. It is surrounded by good farms and orange groves. No malaria or mosquitoes. The Dade City Hotel accommodates 150 people.

Plant City is within easy reach of Tampa and many men engaged in business there have their residences in Plant City. The air is pure, the land is fertile, truck gardening profitable, and the surrounding country full of game.

Belleair, on the Gulf coast is a popular resort. The Belleview Hotel, with beautiful surroundings, is one of the best hotels in Florida.

St. Petersburg, a delightful resort, is situated just across the bay from Port Tampa. Elegant tourist hotels and well-kept boarding houses afford ample accommodations for the tourist.

Tampa is the metropolis of the west coast of southern Florida, and one of the most interesting cities of the state, as well as one of the most active commercially. It is at the head of Tampa Bay and the mouth of the Hillsborough River. Cotton, corn, rice, sugar-cane and the fruits of the tropics form its markets, and since the Spanish War it has become an important export point for cattle.

The Tampa Bay Hotel is a magnificent monument to the man who spent over $3,000,000 in building this gorgeous Moorish pile and surrounding it with a botanical garden not less superb. The garden alone is worth a visit. The hotel has recently been leased by a strong company, and a large sum expended in renovating and refitting, making it undoubtedly the finest resort hotel in Florida.

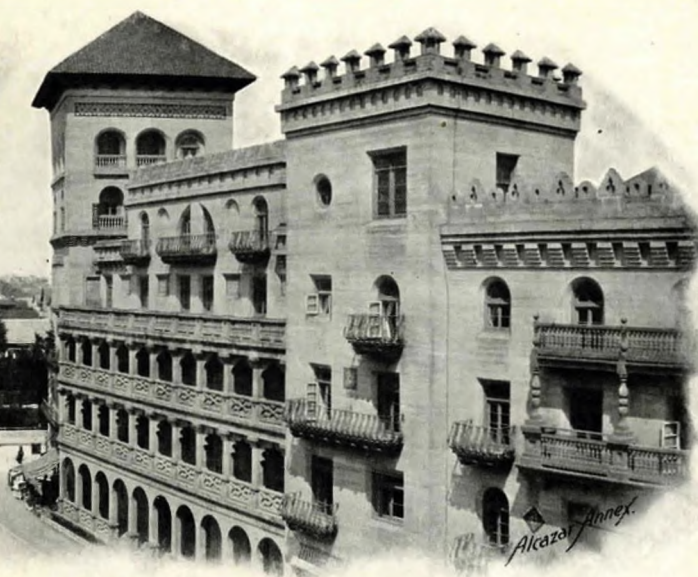

A pleasant feature is an automobile trip from the hotel to Ybor City in the suburbs of Tampa. This is a foreign city in our country. The speech, manners, buildings, etc., are as truly Spanish as in Havana or Santiago de Cuba. The famous Spanish dinners in their restaurants are unrivaled. There is nothing just like them in other than Spanish countries. The Spanish love of music, light and color is evident in the brilliant illuminations, the paint and tinsel of the theatres, and the bands of music at the dance halls. Everywhere in evidence are the olive-skinned and raven-haired señoras and señoritas, the half clad children, and the pleasure loving Cuban señors seeking their favorite diversions after the day's work is over.

Nassau, Key West, Cuba

Nassau From Miami it is but a short sail to one of King Edward's American possessions. Nassau is the capital of New Providence, the chief of the Bahama Islands. It is directly east of Southern Florida, about 150 miles from Miami. The sailing is perfect, the drives are magnificent and the golf links are good. The new Hotel Colonial stands opposite the harbor entrance. The Hotel Royal Victoria is equally advantageously located.

Key West is situated on an island reached by steamer from Miami or Tampa and is only ninety miles from Havana, Cuba. The city has a population of 25,000 and is one of the most important naval stations of the United States. The cigar and sponge industries give employment to a large number.

Havana, Cuba The volume of travel to Cuba is increasing every season. Havana is becoming better known to the outside world, largely through visitors to Florida, who take advantage of its proximity to see the country in which the United States has so large an interest. The connections from either Miami, Key West or Tampa are

A New Florida

SOUTH of Tampa; a new Florida about which the average tourist knows little or nothing, a Florida as charming as it is novel and surprising—is now made accessible by the extension of the Seaboard Air Line Railway to Sarasota and the Manatee section.

Already there are excellent hotels with accommodations for several thousand visitors. The coast here is a succession of beautiful bays with the picturesque vegetation of the tropics lining their white curving beaches. The land itself undulates gracefully and the grass grows down to the edge of the beach, shaded by great live oaks, hickories, splendid palmetto trees, pines and magnolias. At a short distance from the shore is a line of long narrow keys, between which there are frequent passes unto the Gulf of Mexico, and as you sail the peaceful waters of these protected bays you will look across the keys and see the big ships rising and falling with the swell of the Gulf. The climate is influenced by the Gulf Stream and the vegetation is much more tropical than it would be otherwise. The large bodies of warm salt water together with the night breezes blowing from the Atlantic through the pine trees of the interior, make the region as perfect a sanitarium as could be desired.

There is an abundance of small game even in the most thickly-settled parts, and of the larger kinds, a few miles back from the coast. There is no finer fishing anywhere than in the rivers and bays from Tampa Bay south.

The Manatee River

gives a distinctive character to a large part of this region. It is one of the most beautiful rivers in the world. It is about two miles broad at its mouth and for several miles up the stream it is more than a mile wide. On its banks are a number of little towns and villages. Manatee, at which place the railroad crosses the river, Palmetto and Ellenton are thriving villages. About all of these places are large orange groves and great stretches of the richest uncleared hammock land, awaiting the settler.

Braidentown is a charming place reached by carriage in half an hour from Manatee. It is progressive, has electric lights, an electric railway, good stores, a newspaper, a bank, good schools and churches and a number of handsome residences. The frost never reaches this far south and the orange crop here has never suffered from this cause.

Sarasota is located on a point of land running out into Sarasota Bay. Boats from the Gulf and Tampa, put in here and it is the mecca of all fishermen. In the passes and in Sarasota Bay the tarpon is more abundant than anywhere else on the coast. The kingfish, too, weighing fifty pounds or more, which the sportsman regards next to the tarpon, abounds. The finest Spanish mackerel in the South, the finest pompano, mullet, sea trout, red snapper, redfish, jackfish, groupers, flounders and sheepshead are caught. The Bellehaven Hotel stands at the water's edge.
