Fishing's Fun for young and old from the shore of Lake Josephine . . . an easy walk from Many Glacier Hotel. A rainbow or cutthroat trout's first strike is a thrill no youngster ever forgets.

Fishing like you've never known before

What's your pleasure, angler? Cutthroat, eastern brook, Dolly Varden or rainbow trout? Lake trout, Rocky Mountain whitefish, landlocked salmon or Montana grayling? They all answer your lure in the clear blue lakes and snow-fed mountain streams of Glacier National Park. Take your choice of trolling, plug casting, spinning or the deft whip of a flyrod. June and September, crisp and beautiful, are the park's best months for fishing. And you don't even need a license. Rods and tackle can be rented nominally at park hotels. Park rangers usually know where the big ones are biting . . . and the best ways to land 'em.

White Rapids below Swiftcurrent Falls — mere moments away from Many Glacier Hotel — conceal many a prize trout. And the hotel chef will serve your catch for dinner!

Beauty and Solitude are bonuses for the angler who tries his luck casting or still-fishing on Swiftcurrent Lake. That's Mt. Gould, standing guard like a stately sentinel in the background.

Lake to Creel to Pan in a matter of minutes! Mmmm, what a way to start the day on an overnight saddle trip to one of Glacier Park's countless peak-fringed lakes.

Outdoor adventure...

in the heart of this
cool mountain wilderness

Step from your Great Northern streamliner, and you're in another world... a veritable scenic wonderland just as Nature carved it a million years ago. Much of Glacier Park's beauty can be enjoyed from motor coaches traveling 100 miles of highways. But Glacier jealously saves her finest thrills for the more venturesome visitor who roams her 1000 miles of well-marked trails.

Glacier is known as a hiker's paradise... but you needn't be an Alpinist. The park's most popular walks follow easy, gently sloping trails - to Grinnell Glacier, Iceberg Lake, Ptarmigan Tunnel. The very names bespeak adventure!

You'd rather ride? Try a guided pack trip to Granite Park or Sperry Chalets; to Pinnacle Wall or knife-like Garden Wall. And for the veteran outdoorsman... guided trips to remote wilderness areas.

Whether your forte is a ranger-guided nature walk or an overnight saddle trek, your every moment's packed with fun and excitement... on the trails and at the fine hotels of Glacier National Park, high in the Montana Rockies.

Hiking...riding...camping...or just looking

There's so much to do that's fun in Glacier National Park

Hiking Papoose-Style keeps the family together on easy trails.

Party of Riders, back from a pack trip, prepare to leave the saddle guides and complete their journey by sightseeing cruiser across Lake Josephine.

On The Trail to Sperry Chalet, hikers pause near Lincoln Pass to view the scenic splendors.

Nature Walks along gently sloping trails such as this to Iceberg Lake are guided by park rangers, who point out flowers, trees, wildlife, landmarks.

Following Waterton River at U.S. end of Waterton Lake gives this couple hearty appetites for their tasty box lunches, packed by a park hotel.

Twilight Songfest at Swiftcurrent Lake... perfect climax to a fun-filled Glacier Park day. The campfire's warmth is welcome after sunset.
