

CM Russell

On the front cover of this menu is reproduced "Indian Warfare," one of the masterpieces of Western art by Charles M. Russell, the Montana cowboy-artist. A larger reproduction of the painting appears in the observation-lounge car of this train. Largely self-taught, Russell had no peer in the depiction of the Western horse, the plains cowboy and Indian. He died in Great Falls, Montana, in 1926. Russell pictures reproduced on the Empire Builder fleet are owned by Mrs. Kenneth Egan, Maurice Egan and Gene Robertson, and are on exhibition in the Mint, in Great Falls.

The scenic and historic "Route of the Empire Builder" stretches westward from Chicago to the inland seaports of the Pacific Northwest. From Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis the route is that of the Burlington Lines and westward from the Twin Cities that of Great Northern Railway. Between Spokane and Portland the route is that of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway, along the mighty Columbia River.

Great Northern's main line swings west through three time zones, over two major mountain ranges, along the border of Glacier National Park in Montana, America's second largest and only national park on the main line of a transcontinental railway, and through Cascade Tunnel, longest tunnel in the Western Hemisphere, 7.79 miles long, arrow straight, cement lined and electric-lighted. Rich agricultural, mining, cattle and lumber empires pass in ultimate review to the shores of Puget Sound.
