Montana

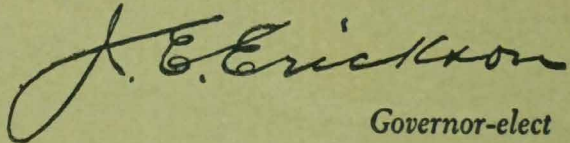

Montana wants the approving judgment of her sister states only in the degree to which her record of progress and her future promise entitle her. The truth about Montana, her resources and her opportunity is what we want known and appreciated. Montana needs men and women adapted by nature and experience, and equipped with capital to achieve permanent success here. To their effort we pledge the assistance of every public agency.

J. M. Dixon

Governor of Montana

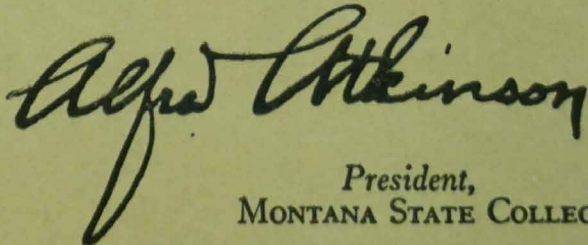

Eighty-one thousand families own their own homes in Montana; her people are happy, prosperous and healthy; her corn and wheat crops were the largest this year of any in her history. The largest sugar factory in the world is in Montana. The biggest mines in the world are in Montana. Montana's percentage of increase in dairy products this year is the largest in the United States. Montana has the largest primary wheat market in the world. Montana has millions of acres of unoccupied, fertile land at a low price per acre. Her doors are flung wide open to home builders.

J. E. Erickson

Governor-elect

Montana ranks first among all states in spring bread wheat production, and in the proportion of her wheat crop receiving the highest market grade. Montana's 1924 wheat crop alone brought $155.00 of new wealth for every person in the population of the State. Montana also produced ten and one-half million bushels of corn in 1924.
