

ALASKA LINER AT COLUMBIA GLACIER

Alaska Liner and Columbia Glacier

Modern liners like the "Alaska" are dwarfed by Columbia Glacier, 300 feet high and more than three miles long, one of Alaska's rare and colorful sights. Vibrations from the ship's whistle often dislodge ice masses to launch them as icebergs while fascinated passengers watch spell-bound.

Post Card

PLACE
ONE CENT
STAMP
HERE

Route of the North Coast Limited

MADE IN U. S. A.