Seabound Mountain Wilds

merica's Last Wilderness" in northwestern Washington is the nation's newest national park—a land of giant forests, exquisite flowers, lakes, crashing mountain streams and snow-crowned peaks overlooking the sea. Forest Service trails follow primitive paths of Roosevelt elk, deer, bear, and cougar. Indians on their near-by reservation ply shovel-nose canoes, guide salmon and trout fishermen. Two-day Olympic Loop tours from Seattle in summer encircle the new park. Travel information on request.
