THRU THE ROCKIES — NOT AROUND THEM

Sportsman's Paradise

Our cover scene depicts a spot on the wild upper reaches of the Pine River, in the heart of the San Juan Wilderness Area—a million and a half acres of virgin forest—truly a paradise for the sportsman and lover of the outdoors.

Maintained by the federal government in its natural and primitive condition, this is one of the few regions remaining in the United States completely untouched by commercialism. Here there are no roads . . . no billboards . . . no hot-dog stands . . . no cottage camps. Transportation is by pack and saddle—no trek for a "tenderfoot" without a competent mountain-wise guide.

To those who do penetrate into these mountain fastnesses, there are unfolded a succession of unrivalled scenic contrasts—rugged snow-capped peaks, and colorful desert mesas; valleys filled with lush green meadows, and deep rocky gorges; crystal lakes and sparkling streams teeming with scrappy mountain trout, and dense silent forests where the peaceful stillness is broken only by the scampering feet of forest creatures—truly a land of wonder and beauty.
