From the wheat fields of Kansas to the orange groves of California, the transcontinental highways which follow the popular "Santa Fe Route" traverse a region rich in scenic interest . . . New Mexico with its mesas and pueblos, its ancient cliff-dwellings and old Spanish missions . . . Arizona with its Grand Canyon, Painted Desert, Petrified Forest and colorful Indian Country.

Along the way Fred Harvey Hotels provide convenient stops for meals and lodging and ideal headquarters for information concerning interesting journeys "off the beaten path."
