NON-SINK BATHING IN GREAT SALT LAKE AT SALTAIR, SALT LAKE CITY

Salt Lake City, Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, on the main line of the Union Pacific to California, is a metropolis of marked beauty and individuality, 4,260 feet in elevation, at the base of the rugged Wasatch Mountains, and is the commercial, manufacturing, financial and industrial center of the vast inter-mountain empire. The chief features of interest are the majestic Mormon Temple, the Tabernacle (free recitals on the superb organ are given daily except Sunday), the Beehive and Lion Houses, other historic buildings of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints, the Deseret Museum, Fort Douglas, and Great Salt Lake.

From Salt Lake City radiate paved and hard-surfaced motorways through mountain regions of striking scenic appeal, such as the Cottonwood Canyons, City Creek Canyon, Emigration Canyon, Parley's Canyon, American Fork Canyon and Provo Canyon; and also to the immense surface copper mine in the picturesque canyon camp at Bingham.

Saltair Beach, fourteen miles from the city on Great Salt Lake, and reached by fast electric cars, offers the most unusual bathing in the world. Floating on the unbelievably buoyant waters of the lake requires no effort; one cannot sink, for the water is approximately 22 percent salt. Excepting the Dead Sea, Great Salt Lake is the saltiest body of water in existence. It is thirty miles wide and seventy miles long, with an area of approximately 2,700 square miles, and its surface is broken by several large islands. The sunsets over Great Salt Lake are noted for their variety and splendor. One of the world's largest dance floors is one of the many features of the great Moorish pavilion at Saltair.

Salt Lake City is a convenient gateway to Yellowstone, Grand Teton, Zion, Bryce Canyon and Grand Canyon National Parks.
