Beauty Route to the "C"

Scenic Inside Waterway Passage to ALASKA

Early morning in the 200-mile Columbia River Gorge, en route to Portland.

Along the Union Pacific route, Multnomah Falls tumbles in shimmering mists.

Streamliners

"CITY OF PORTLAND"

First, fastest, and still the finest through Streamliner between Chicago and Portland, Tacoma and Seattle. Comfortable rooms and sections in sleeping cars, congenial lounge cars, and roomy coaches with reclining leg-rest seats. Dining cars serving finest foods. No extra fare.

"CITY OF ST. LOUIS"

Only Streamliner serving St. Louis, Kansas City, and Denver with through sleeping car and coach accommodations for Portland, also Tacoma and Seattle. Beauty Route to the "Evergreen Empire" and the "City of Roses."

Evergreen Empire" and the "City of Roses"

For the through traveler or the leisurely tourist, Union Pacific provides a variety of train schedules and equipment between Chicago, St. Louis, Salt Lake City and California, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, (also Spokane, Walla Walla, Yakima, and Lewiston). Connections provide easy travel to Victoria and Vancouver in Canada, as well as steamship service to and from Alaska.

PORTLAND

A seaport near the mouth of the Columbia River, Portland is best known for its abundant rose gardens and its mountains and forests near by. Union Pacific trains have their western terminus here, with frequent service to Tacoma and Seattle.

SEATTLE - TACOMA

Built in a region of forests, lakes and mountains, these two Washington cities are well known world ports. Boat and train schedules are frequent and varied, for enjoyable touring.

VANCOUVER - VICTORIA

On the inland waterways north from Seattle, these two Canadian cities have beautiful buildings and parks; also provide delightful shopping for china, woolens, etc.

OREGON COAST

Sandy beaches, and coves for fishing fleets, make the rugged coastline of Oregon a pleasant place for the tourist who wants out-of-the-way beauty and relaxation.

OLYMPIC

NATIONAL PARK

Tours from Seattle circle this peninsula, between Puget Sound and the Pacific Ocean, where mountains rise nearly 8,000 feet a few miles from the sea, amid thick forests where big game roam.

MT. RAINIER

NATIONAL PARK

From Seattle and Tacoma, regular tours leave daily by varied routes to and around this great park. Many glaciers provide streams and lakes, where floral beauty and grassy meadows enchant the tourist. Timberline is low, and above this the flowers belt the mountain.

CRATER LAKE

NATIONAL PARK

South of Portland, from either Klamath Falls or Medford, Oregon, this remarkably deep blue lake may be visited. It lies in the crater of an extinct volcano, and is circled by a Rim Drive.

Davidson Glacier from Lynn Canal, on the inland passage to Alaska.

Popular with travelers is the astra dome Streamliner between Portland, Tacoma and Seattle.

Fabulous ALASKA

Steamship cruises from Seattle, also via Vancouver, provide summer tours along the protected inner passage to Alaska, stopping at a variety of ports all the way to Seward where rail and bus transport visitors to cities such as Anchorage and Fairbanks.

MIDNIGHT SUN

During summer the sun's low arc at the Arctic Circle makes daylight last around the clock, providing long days of sightseeing.

GLACIERS

Huge flows of deep ice reach from mountain valleys down to the sea, along the cruise routes.

SITKA - JUNEAU

Nearest to Seattle, these ports provide tourist attractions including totem poles, relics, and Indian craft.

HIGH MOUNTAINS

Greatest peaks on our continent rise up almost from water's edge. Highest is Mt. McKinley, in McKinley National Park, reached via the Alaska Railroad.

Sports are the feature at Sun Valley, Idaho, summer and winter.

High Yellowstone Falls in a colorful canyon.

Jagged crests of the Teton Mountains.

Stopovers

ON UNION PACIFIC

No other route offers such opportunities to visit and relax in completely arranged accommodations along the way between the East and the Pacific Northwest. Whether the itinerary is to include only a one day stopover, or leisurely weeks along the way, there is a variety of tours and accommodations which will fill any time schedule with satisfying travel experiences.

SUN VALLEY, Idaho

Only a short ride on deluxe motorbuses from Shoshone, Idaho, on the main line, to Sun Valley makes a pleasant visit for through travelers, for a day, or a week or more.

YELLOWSTONE - GRAND TETON

Only Union Pacific serves both these neighboring Parks at West Yellowstone and at Victor gateways, with tour buses daily from both. Convenient train service from Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Salt Lake City, Ogden, and Pocatello.

SALT LAKE CITY

A beautiful city in a mountain-ringed setting, with Great Salt Lake and other unusual sights. Through service from Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, California, and the Pacific Northwest.

DENVER - Rocky Mtn. Nat'l Park

Another enjoyable stopover visit, or tour trip, with a variety of scenic opportunities depending on time and interests. Union Pacific offers mainline through service to Denver for travelers between Chicago or St. Louis and Portland-Seattle.

CIRCLE ROUTE to California

With very little additional fare, in most cases, travelers between Chicago and Portland, for instance, may include Los Angeles and San Francisco. Various sales opportunities exist to increase travel enjoyment through the West.

Escorted Tours

Completely arranged and escorted tours, including Pacific Northwest and Canadian Rockies, are available through Union Pacific and Chicago & North Western System. Eight other tour combinations are available at frequent intervals all summer, as described in the Department of Tours publications.
