

*T*he Great White Throne towers a half mile above the valley floor in Zion National Park in Southern Utah. It is one of the most inspiring and majestic mountain rock formations on the face of the earth. Its sheer slopes seem forever changing with magic light. Also adding to Zion's beauty is the colorful Temple of Sinawava, another of the many masterpieces created by nature in this western wonderland.

Only a few years ago the wonders of Southern Utah were part of a little-known virgin mountain wilderness. Today, however, trails have made it accessible, and the region is enthusiastically proclaimed by thousands of visitors. In the heart of Zion Canyon is attractive Zion Lodge with modern facilities for guests.

Zion National Park is linked by paved highways with Utah's Bryce Canyon National Park and the Grand Canyon National Park of Arizona. They present a succession of scenic wonders that go to make one huge spectacular panorama.

Many travelers enroute to or from California, via Union Pacific, arrange for stop-over privileges at Lund, Utah, to visit these world-famed National Parks.

ZION NATIONAL PARK

The old Mormon pioneers gave to the white and crimson-topped cones and buttes of Zion both imaginative and appropriate names, and as you ride through this Canyon you see and understand how descriptive are these names: The Mountain of the Sun, the Mountain of Mystery, The Towers of the Virgin, Altar of Sacrifice, the Three Patriarchs, and most majestic of all — the Great White Throne.

A motor road winds deep into the Canyon, while great red precipices rise in stately splendor on either side of the narrow valley. Occasionally the Canyon broadens into wide courts of bewitching beauty — like the Temple of Sinawava, formed by the soaring buttes and temples of the colorful mountains, carpeted with green, decorated with aspens. To see Zion is to see a world that is both beautiful and different.

GRAND CANYON NATIONAL PARK

Grand Canyon is an experience you must discover yourself for words are inadequate to describe the majestic grandeur and breathtaking immensity of the earth's greatest chasm. The great sea of shifting rainbow colors exalts you; and the realization that such a place actually exists fills you with indefinable awe, a veneration for the sublime that never again leaves you. No wonder it has been called "The Divine Abyss."

There is spread before you an immense chasm, more than 12 miles wide and a mile deep. Rising from its depths are whole ranges of mountains, their bases a mile below.

As the light changes, so does the aspect of the Canyon, and each change deepens your appreciation of Grand Canyon.

BRYCE CANYON NATIONAL PARK

Bryce is one of the most amazing and fascinating sights on earth — an immense semi-circular amphitheater, wherein countless weirdly sculptured rock formations form tableaux of extraordinary beauty.

The changing colors of Bryce are more amazing, if that is possible, than the unusual formations. Lighted by the morning sun, the canyon shimmers and glows with radiant energy — at midday Bryce absorbs the sunlight in a quiet and restful manner — but during sunset the colors are brought out in soft hues, while purple shadows slowly lengthen, giving the soon departed brilliancy flattering contrast. Then moonlight and shadows reign over Bryce, creating an enchanted setting of white gold spires and castles of undescribable splendor.

CEDAR BREAKS NATIONAL MONUMENT

Here you are introduced to a strange and exciting world, where color becomes a thrilling sensation. Curiously massed carvings, reach upward from yawning chasms, and the sloping side walls of the high plateau descend to the depths in furrowed, eroded and broken ridges.

Red is the color most frequently found — a tint of red that sometimes blazes into orange. The scattered pines supply a harmonizing green. Various shades of yellow, lavender, white and purple highlight and shadow the complete picture. Cedar Breaks is claimed by many to be the most colorful of Utah's many wonderlands.
