

Long before winter blizzards sweep down upon our cities and farms, early autumn snowfalls leave a soft blanket of white upon the slopes of the Colorado Rockies.

In early fall, the mountain forests glow with the gold of the quivering aspen. Shrubs and grasses put on their winter dress. From high alpine meadows the elk and deer come down into the valleys. All the forest world seems to glisten with life.

Some folks say an autumn visit in Colorado is the most beautiful experience they know. Coloradoans, too, look forward eagerly to this season.

Many resorts and Dude Ranches in the Colorado Rockies welcome guests in the fall. Some remain open all winter for the winter sports season. The year 'round popularity of the Colorado Mountain Playgrounds is largely due to its being so conveniently located in mid-America, so easy to visit en-route to and from East or West.

Denver, the "Queen City of the Rockies," is the gateway to Rocky Mountain National Park and Denver Mountain Parks. It is the western terminus of the popular Domeliner "City of Denver" in overnight service between Chicago and Denver. Also serving Denver is Union Pacific's Domeliner "City of St. Louis" in transcontinental service between St. Louis and California; and the Streamliner "Portland Rose" between Kansas City, Denver and Pacific Northwest.
