

Known as a city of hills, San Francisco's "Nob Hill" is perhaps the best known of any of the city's many eminences. The site was selected by the elite of early-day San Francisco for their mansions. They were built of marble and stone and lavishly furnished. Today Nob Hill supports modern apartment houses, clubs and such famous hotels as the Fairmont, Mark Hopkins and the Huntington.

Other famous hills of San Francisco are Telegraph Hill and Russian Hill. Telegraph Hill was long used as a signal tower to inform the town of approaching ships, since it overlooks the Bay and the Golden Gate as well as stretches of the Pacific beyond. Russian Hill, to the west, was used in the early days as a burial ground for Russian sailors. These hills are now covered with apartment houses, residences and studios. San Francisco has probably more "view" homes than any other city in the world.

Famous "Nob Hill" in San Francisco where early-day tycoons, called "Nabobs" by the townsfolk, built their mansions. The brownstone building on the left, now the Pacific Union Club, was the only one of the Nob Hill mansions little damaged by the great fire of 1906. The white structure behind it is the beautiful Fairmont Hotel. The tall hotel in the center is the Mark Hopkins, noted for its famous skyroom cocktail lounge, the "Top of the Mark."
