

This view of Fremont Street, Las Vegas, Nevada, greets Union Pacific patrons on arriving at this world-famous desert resort city.

Mother Nature laid out the geographical and natural advantages that have made Las Vegas a rendezvous for travelers to and from California since the covered wagon days. Man has added those vacation and resort features which attract more than ten million visitors a year.

Modern Fremont Street, with its 13-story skyscraper Hotel Fremont, and higher ones planned, illustrates the city's tremendous growth from a pre-war population of 8,000 to over 70,000 in 1962. Along this street, where casinos never close, are also fine shops, department stores, theatres, restaurants and offices.

A few miles south begins Las Vegas' fabulous "Strip" with its multi-million dollar resort hotels interspersed with modern shops and other business. Here perform nightly more international stars of stage, radio, TV and even Opera than in any other one place in the world. In fact Las Vegas is often called the "Entertainment Capital of the World." Adjacent to "The Strip" a new multi-million dollar Convention Center brings many national conventions to Las Vegas.

Las Vegas, on the main line of the Union Pacific Railroad, is served by the Domeliner "City of Los Angeles," "The Challenger," and "City of St. Louis" respectively between Chicago or St. Louis and Los Angeles. Named for this holiday city is the Streamliner "LAS VEGAS HOLIDAY" Special which makes a daytime round trip between Los Angeles and Las Vegas daily during the summer and holiday seasons and week-end service at other times.

Fremont Street, Las Vegas, Nevada, main stem of the ultra-modern "Casino Center" area where doors never close, as seen from Union Pacific station.

American National Insurance Company

En Route to Convention Las Vegas, Nevada

Via Union Pacific Railroad Special Train

July 21, 1965

AMERICAN NATIONAL INSURANCE COMPANY SPECIAL TRAIN

Barstow to Las Vegas

July 21, 1965

B R E A K F A S T

Fresh Orange Juice

Chilled Melon

Tomato Juice Cocktail

Strawberries with Cream

Hot or Dry Cereal with Cream

Broiled Sugar Cured Ham, Bacon or Sausage with Eggs, as desired

Spanish Omelet, Garni

Corned Beef Hash with Poached Egg

The Jam Tray

Hot Rolls

Muffins

Toast

OR

Griddle Cakes or French Toast with choice of Ham, Bacon or Sausage
Wild Blackberry Syrup

Coffee

Tea

Milk

Cocoa

Decaffeinated Coffee