Attaining Celestial Heights ...the new Twin Zephyrs

Borrowing from the fabled heritage of the ancient gods who once ruled earth from the cloud-swept heights of Mt. Olympus, the Burlington has given to the art of travel, twin achievements of exceptional brilliance . . . the new 8-car Twin Zephyrs. These luxurious speedsters have brought new delight to the pleasurable thrill of a trip along the Mississippi River Scenic Line.

The naming of railroad cars, ordinarily a pointless process of selection, here achieves direct significance, for each glistening, silvery "chariot" glorifies in stainless steel the legendary virtues of some classic deity. Here is exemplified the power and wisdom of Jupiter plus the supernal, silent speed of Zephyrus and Pegasus — the metallurgical genius of Vulcan, master artisan — the beauty and poetic rhythm of Venus and Apollo — the handicraft of Minerva. The name "Mercury" symbolizes the swift pursuit of the ideals of modern transportation, and in "Diana" (goddess of the chase) we have, in effect, overtaken true travel comfort.

Here are the names of the twin Zephyr cars, each with their classical associations:

Train of the Gods

Train of the Goddesses

Another and more modern heritage is also embodied in these splendid trains . . . the Burlington's proud heritage of 88 years of practical, progressive railroading in that vast inland empire that lies between the Great Lakes, Rockies and the Gulf of Mexico.
