

Milton's Elm at Chalfont St Giles

SELECTED DINNER

Mixed Fruit Cup aux Cerises

Consommé Royale

Roast Brome Lake Duckling, Savoury and Apple Sauce

Cauliflower Polonaise

Boiled New Potatoes

Peach Melba

Petits Fours

Fresh Fruits

Coffee

WINE

Sherry—Tio Pepe (Gonzalez Byass)

Red Burgundy—
Château Calon-Segur, 1953

Liqueur—Grand Marnier

Coffee is also served in the Public Rooms

M E N U

HORS D'OEUVRES	Mixed Fruit Cup aux Cerises Smoked Salmon Ripe Olives	Bonne Bouche Windsor Salted Nuts Queen Olives	Tomatoes Pompadour Table Celery Radishes
SOUP	Consommé Royale		Crème Dubarry
FISH	Poached Tranche of Salmon, Sauce Hollandaise Pommes Nature Fried Fillet of Plaice Figaro	Cucumber Suedoise
ENTREES	Celery Hearts au Jus Breaded Lamb Cutlet Réforme Spring Chicken Americaine
TO ORDER	Ham Steak with Sliced Pineapple
JOINT	Prime Ribs of Beef, Roasted, Grated Horseradish
LIME SORBET
RELEVE	Roast Brome Lake Duckling, Savoury and Apple Sauce
VEGETABLES	Wax Beans	Cauliflower Polonaise	Creamed Spinach
POTATOES	Boiled New	Fondantés	Macaire
COLD SELECTION	Roast Lamb, Mint Sauce	Galantine of Veal	Roast Turkey
SALADS	Lettuce Dressing : French, Thousand Island, Russian	Tomato Ninon	Avocado Pear
DESSERTS	Victoria Sponge Pudding Peach Melba Vanilla Ice Cream, Hot Chocolate Sauce Genoise Slices	Marrons Glacé	Fruit Bavaroise Petits Fours
SAVOURY	Welsh Rarebit
	Fresh Fruits	Coffee

DINNER

EMPRESS OF BRITAIN

SUNDAY

APRIL 9 - 1961

Canadian Pacific

John Milton, British poet, who is probably best known as the author of "Paradise Lost", was born in London in 1608. St. Paul's School, London and Christ's College, Cambridge, were the scenes of his educational labours, and the little street, Petty France, in Westminster, is recorded as being the site of his home when he began "Paradise Lost" in 1658. Five years later he moved to Chalfont St. Giles, Buckinghamshire, to escape the Plague, and the cottage in which he lived is still preserved. Later he returned to London, where he died November 8, 1674. He was buried at St. Giles, Cripplegate, London.